The new Rule is intended to promote a more efficient process for deposition of entity representatives and reduce the likelihood of a mismatch between the information sought and the witness produced. The proposed Rule and the memorandum in support can be found at: www.nycourts.gov/rules/comments/index.shtml April 7, 2015 Proposed adoption of new Commercial Division Rule and amendment to Commercial Rule 11-d, relating to depositions of entity representatives.

The essential elements of the new Rule are (emphasis added):

- (i) A party wishing to take a deposition of an entity will serve a notice or subpoena enumerating those matters to be the subject of the deposition "with reasonable particularity."
- (ii) If the notice or subpoena does not name a particular officer, director, member or employee of the entity, the named entity must designate one or more officers, directors, members or employees or other individual(s) who consent to testify on its behalf; the identity, description and title of that individual; and the matter(s) on which that individual will testify.
- (iii) If the notice or subpoena does name a particular officer, director, member or employee of the entity, the entity, pursuant to CPLR 3106(d), shall produce that individual, unless, no later than ten days before the deposition, the entity designates another individual who consents to testify on its behalf, in the place of the named or

Pursuant to Rule 14, 22 NYCRR 202.70(g)(14), discovery disputes will be resolved in the following manner:

1. If the Part Rules outline a mechanism to resolve discovery disputes, the Part Rules must be followed; or, if there are no Part Rules:
2. Follow the mechanism laid out in Rule 14, namely a party with a disclosure dispute shall write a letter to the Part, maximum 3-page single spaced in length, outlining the issue(s); the other side(s) may submit response letter(s) of equal length. (8) ELECTRONIC DISCOVERY AND PRIVILEGE LOGS

Discovery of Electronically Stored Information (ESI) is one of the most expensive and challenging discovery categories. The new Commercial Division Rules, as it concerns electronic discovery, 22 NYCRR 202.12(b) and (c)(3), as well as the related privilege logs, attempt to rein in the cost and complexity of electronic discovery and related privilege logs. In assessing whether the matter before the Court will benefit from electronic discovery, the parties should consider: (i) is there potentially relevant ESI material in the case; (ii) do the parties intend to rely on ESI; (iii) are there less costly or less burdensome alternatives to secure the necessary information without recourse to discovery of the ESI; (iv) is the cost of preserving and producing ESI proportionate to the amount in controversy; and (v) what is the likelihood that discovery of ESI will aid in the resolution of the dispute.

___ YES ___ NO ___ NOT SURE

(b) Meet and Confer: Pursuant to Uniform Commercial Division Rule 8(b), 22 NYCRR 202.70(g)(8)(b), counsel MUST certify that they have met and conferred regarding electronic discovery, before the Preliminary Conference

(ii) Production: 22 NYCRR 202.12(c)(3)(e),(d)

(iv) Claw Back Provisions for inadvertent production:

(v) Costs: Each party shall bear its own costs of production pursuant to U.S. Bank Nat'l Assoc. v. Greenpoint Mtge. Funding Inc. 94 A.D.3d 58 (1st Dep't 2012). In the event that cost shifting becomes an issue, the parties shall follow the mechanism for Disclosure Dispute found in section (6).

(d) Judicial Intervention

The parties anticipate the need for judicial intervention.

___ YES ___ NO ___ MAYBE

(e) Discovery of Electronically Stored Information from Non-Parties:

Parties and non-parties should adhere to the Commercial Division's Guidelines for Discovery of Electronically Stored Information (ESI) from non-parties which can be found in Appendix A to the Rules of the Commercial Division.

B. PRIVILEGE LOGS

One of the most time-consuming and costly aspects of discovery in complex commercial litigation cases is the creation and maintenance of privilege logs. At present, privilege logs are governed by CPLR 3122(b) which mandates "that a party who intends to withhold documents because of privilege (must) prepare a 'privilege log' which (i) contains a separate entry for each document being withheld; (ii) provides 'pedigree' information for each such document and (iii) sets forth the specific privileges and immunities that insulate that document from production. (Memorandum concerning Privilege Log Practices in the Commercial Division at p.1)

THE CATEGORICAL or DOCUMENT-BY-DOCUMENT APPROACH

(a) Rule 11-b, 22 NYCRR 202.70(g)(11-b), mandates that the parties meet and confer at the outset of the case and from time to time thereafter to discuss:

- the scope of the privilege review;
- the amount of information to be set out in the privilege log;
- the use of categories to reduce document-by-document logging;
- whether categories of information can be excluded from the logging requirements;
- any other issues pertinent to privilege review. (Rule 11-b(a))

(b) (1) The new rule clearly states that the preference in the Commercial Division is for the parties to use categorical designations where appropriate to reduce the time and costs

v. Defendant _____

associated with preparing privilege logs. . . . (An example of such a categorical designation is the designation that all communications between the client and the client's attorney AFTER the commencement of the action would be designated as exempt pursuant to the attorney-client privilege.) . . . The parties are encouraged to utilize a reasoned method of organizing the documents . . .

There are specific rules that must be followed to ensure that the documents contained in a categorical designation were properly placed in that category.

- (2) In the event the requesting party refuses to permit a categorical approach, and instead insists on a document-by-document listing on the privilege log then . . . the requirements of CPLR 3122 must be followed. In that circumstance, however, the producing party, upon showing of good cause, may apply to the court for an allocation of costs, including attorneys' fees, incurred with respect to preparing a document-by-document privilege log
- (3) Even if a party insists on a document-by-document privilege log as contemplated by CPLR 3122 . . . each uninterrupted e-mail chain shall constitute a single entry, and the description accompanying the entry shall include the following: (i) an indication that the e-mail chain represents an uninterrupted dialogue; (ii) the beginning and ending dates and times (as noted in the e-mails) of the dialogue; (iii) the number of e-mails in the dialogue; and (iv) the names of all the authors and recipients, together with sufficient identifying information about each person (e.g. name of the employer, job title, person's role in the case) to allow for a considered assessment of the privilege issue.

While there are other important section of the new Privilege Log Rule that will have to be considered and followed, these sections need not be repeated here.
